

Design Evanston See Wright's Roots

Join us for a very special tour the new exhibition of Frank Lloyd Wright's work at Expo72 in Chicago's loop. The exhibition is curated by Tim Samuelson, Chicago's Cultural Historian, who will be our personal guide.

"Every icon has their start somewhere. Frank Lloyd Wright's reputation as a brilliant architect and outsized personality came from complex roots – many going back to his early years in Chicago.

Using seldom-seen illustrations and original artifacts to tell the story of his complex personal journey during the often-overlooked early period of his life and career, Wright's Roots explores Wright's formative years."

<http://featuresblogs.chicagotribune.com/theskyline/2012/07/how-frank-lloyd-wright-resolved-his-inner-struggles-small-but-thoughtful-gallery-exhibit-details-arc.html>

Informal dinner and discussion afterward at Pisano's, 61 East Madison.

6:30pm, Thursday, August 2, 2012
Expo72, 72 East Randolph Street

Text and photo: ©2012 Chicago Tribune

Free for Design Evanston members.

A $5.00 contribution is requested for non-members

Please rsvp to jw@jackweissassociates.com